

Welcome to our new site!

At Travaini Pumps USA we are excited to roll out some upgrades in the way our customers can access information. The first thing to notice is the bright new style that has been incorporated into the site. All the pictures have been updated to show recent and up to date references to our products and facilities. Refer to the "About Us" section to see a snapshot of our USA and Italy facilities, and a dive into the history of the Travaini family and name.

Arguably the most important implemented change is the update and verification of all technical data. Our customers are now welcome to refer to each of our main pages for quick and easy access to performance data snapshots for each of our product lines.

For more in depth information, each pump that we offer has a performance curve and cut sheet that can be accessed in each pump series page. For quick responses for custom system sizing, there is now a section under "Engineered Solutions" where you can submit your custom quote requests. If there are any questions about the online form submission they can be emailed directly to ProjectEngineering@Travaini.com. For pump or standard system requests, the "Quote Request" button is fully functioning and complete with a request form to help the Travaini staff better assist its customers. Any questions on that form can be directed directly to CustomerService@Travaini.com.

Let us know what you think!

